

ABSTRACT

[0049] A weight determining mechanism and a method for determining the weight of a piece of loaded luggage, particularly a backpack. The mechanism is generally incorporated into a carry handle of the piece of luggage allowing for it to be integral with the luggage and allowing for it
5 to not take up additional space while allowing for quick and easy weight determinations without need for an external scale.